

P3Software Announces Expanded Procurement Evaluation Features. Print buyers can now automatically track quality and performance as well as price.

Natick, Massachusetts - April 18, 2006 P3Software, the leading provider of procurement software for print, announced that they have introduced a major feature improvement to their P3Expedito print procurement software. This latest version of P3Expedito will provide users with high level details relating to price, production and supplier response time and performance.

Quality and Performance Based Decision Making

COO, Bob Yancich states, "At first glance suppliers might be uncomfortable with a supplier performance feature. In fact, it benefits them by adding performance to buyers' selection criteria, instead of using price alone." With these features, the high performing vendors can be easily identified, and will benefit from being evaluated on both price and quality of service.

Automatic Performance Tracking

In this enhanced version, when price data is submitted by suppliers it is automatically time stamped to evaluate response times. Production dates are also tracked to review actual performance versus planned schedules. "This new feature is yet another reason P3Expedito is recognized as a key tool for following best industry practices. Our customers are concerned with total quality and are demanding the same of their vendors, so this is a valuable addition." commented CEO Caleb Tower.

No Additional Cost

The job performance-tracking feature is now part of the newest version of P3Expedito. Current customers are being notified about this improvement and can easily update their system to add this feature - at no additional cost. Finally, Yancich notes, "P3Expedito has always been a feature rich, affordable solution. As promised, we continue to add new, valuable features available free to our family of users".
